European Media Freedom Act: Council secures mandate for negotiations

22 June 2023

EU member state ambassadors have agreed the Council's position on a new law to safeguard media freedom, pluralism and independence in the EU. The European Media Freedom Act (EMFA) will establish a common framework for media services in the EU internal market and introduce measures aimed at protecting journalists and media providers from political interference while also making it easier for them to operate across the EU's internal borders.

– We began our work with the ambition of trying to reach a political agreement on the proposal. That we have now managed to do so is, I believe, a significant achievement on the part of the Swedish Presidency. Parisa Liljestrand, Swedish Minister for Culture
