Foreign and security policy

Foreign policy is about Sweden's relations with and policies towards other countries. Preventing risks and threats is an important part of security policy, which in turn is part of foreign policy. Swedish policy is pursued via direct relations with other countries and also through bodies such as the EU and the UN.

Statements of Foreign Policy

Minister for Foreign Affairs Tobias Billström presents the Government's Statement of Foreign Policy to the Riksdag following Sweden's accession to NATO.

The Statement of Foreign Policy 2024 contains the Government's foreign policy objectives and priorities for the year.

Sweden joining NATO entails a historic, profound and immediate change in Sweden's foreign and security policy. Because of this, the Government has presented a supplementary Statement of Foreign Policy.
